New Princess Rules Over OUampi-land

Thank goodness for Homecoming. And that's where a lot of people went — home.

Festivities began with a chuck wagon lunch in the OUampi Room. After the sloppy-joe and trimmings some students took in the movie "Under The Yum Yum Tree" while others prepared to kill the rest of the afternoon in some devious manner.

The early evening activities got off to a poor start as the sky-diving team could not perform. The wind was over the maximum 14-knot safety factor.

Things picked up, however, as the traditional Council Fire was ignited by a shivering Indian. He was followed by coat-clad Indians dancing around the fire with glowing sparklers.

After the brief council-fire ceremony the crowd moved to a warm Fieldhouse for the crowning of the Homecoming Princess.

'Spirit' Sparklers

The ceremony began with the lighting of sparklers spelling out "OU SPIRIT," followed by a dance by OUampi.

The Ahamo Society of Indian Dancers performed four very colorful dances. They concluded with a war dance intended to "take care of Fort Hays!"

Jim Butler introduced the Princess candidates. The first to appear from the ceremonial tepee was Delores Hurlburt, then Sue Kessinger.

Tension Broken

The tension of the event was broken when Priscilla Wilkins appeared followed by Kathy Wybenga wearing the blue and white Princess robe. The princess received a bouquet of roses by President Traywick.

Kathy, who is current president of Alpha Xi Delta, has been a member of the student council for three years. She is also an officer of Angel Flight, member of WRA, SEA, the Ski Club, the Student Center Committee, Ipmaques and the cheer-leading team.

Editors To Help 'Cool School'

Gateway editor Bob Erxleben and Steve Schroeder, editor of Creighton's student newspaper, will help fellow college students with homework problems on Monday, Nov. 21.

The two will join KBON Radio Sports Director Steve Paul on a new open line program, "Cool School."

The show is aimed primarily at students having trouble with their courses. Guests will include professors and students from area colleges who will also discuss different aspects of Omaha campus life.

Students can call in their questions and/or answers every Monday through Friday from 9-9:55 a.m.

The TOMAHAWK Beauty Contest will be held in the CC Aud. December 7. Women carrying 12 or more hours are eligible to participate. Please register in room 213 of the Student Center on or before November 28.

OU Students In 'College Bowl'

By Dave Decker

Omaha University now has a chance for nation-wide recognition.

Recently University President Leland Traywick accepted an invitation for a team of four students to appear on the General Electric College Bowl, a popular quiz program televised weekly from New York City on the NBC Network.

The date for the team's first appearance has been set for Feb. 19, 1967. Their opponent will be the winner of the previous week's competition.

According to College Bowl's rules, a winning team is permitted to appear for five successive weeks before being retired as "undefeated champion."

Top scholastic minds across the country have competed in the College Bowl. This is the first appearance OU will have made.

Competition for the match is based on questions selected from areas of philosophy, literature, history, fine arts, science and current affairs. Success is dependent on breadth of knowledge and quickness of response.

Dr. Donald Mahson, assistant professor of speech, will coach the team. Tryouts will be held by Dr. Mahson and his coaching committee between the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Interested students should apply to the Student Activities Office in the Student Center no later than Nov. 23. Eligible students are all full-time undergraduate students under twenty-five years of age and in good standing academically.

Team members will be flown to New York the Saturday preceding their appearance, with all expenses paid.

Members of Dr. Mahson's committee will be Miss Elizabeth Hill, Associate Dean of Student Personnel; Fred Ray, Director of Student Activities; Dr. Paul Beck, professor of history; Dr. J. V. Blackwell, professor of art; Dr. Clifford Anderberg, professor

20 Organizations Receive Warning: Comply With Rules

Twenty students organizations were warned Wednesday that they have one week to comply with the rules of the administration or be "kicked off" the University of Omaha campus.

Student activities director Fred Ray, announced during the meeting of the Student Council that the organizations have not registered this year's rosters with his office.

The council accepted a motion that the groups be given one week in which to comply or they will be forced to "relinquish their charters."

Acting president, Randy Owens said committees would be formed to contact representatives of each club to explain the ruling.

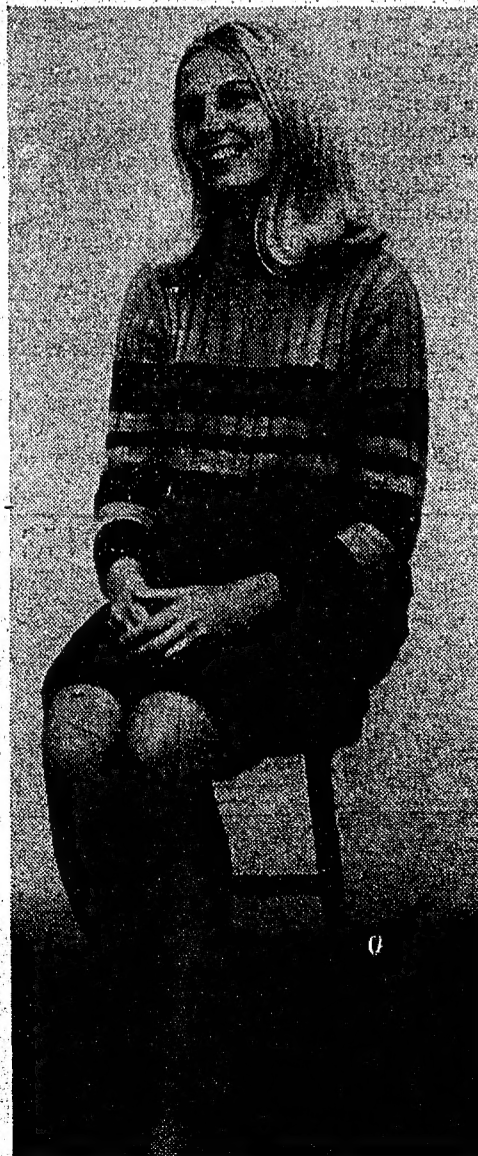

In other action, the council elected an independent student to represent OU on the Inter-Collegiate Council. The new representative is David M. Forbes a pre-med major.

Also considered for the post was Daryl D. Hill, Charles F. Perrigo and Judy Wilson.

Freshman council member, Sally Vassel was chosen as the council's Inter-Pep representative. Inter-Pep is composed of representatives of each student organization and is responsible for promoting school spirit.

Owens also announced that new ropes will be bought for the Homecoming teepee.

Coed of the Week

Sitting Pretty

Coed of the Week Barb Anderson is sitting pretty in more than one sense of the word. A first semester freshman, the 18-year-old home economics major has already represented her sorority—Zeta Tau Alpha—as a candidate for Typical Freshman and Freshman Student Council. Between elections our Coed has found time to join Ipmaques, WRA and the Homemaking Club.

A Senior class meeting will be held Tuesday in the Student Center Ballroom. See Around Campus for details.

Editorially Speaking

The Fine Arts Are Fine, But Can We Afford Them?

Internationally known musicians, lecturers, dancers, a concert pianist, a classical guitarist, artists, art directors, name performers such as Agnes Moorehead... such was the Fine Arts Festival.

Omaha University's first annual Fine Arts Festival opened November 8 and ran through November 13.

The Festival was well-attended by Omahans, but mostly "outside" Omahans, not OU students and faculty members. The only major part played by students in the Festival was in paying for it.

Ten thousand dollars was earmarked for the cost of the Festival. Ten thousand dollars of the students' money.

There is no question of the cultural value of the Festival or of whether or not it was good—it was. It was undoubtedly worth the price. The question is, could we afford that price?

A Rolls Royce is unquestionably a fine car. However, most of us aren't in the Rolls class. By the same token, the Fine Arts Festival was unquestionably a fine program. But, is OU in the Festival class?

Ten thousand dollars is a lot of money to spend entertaining and uplifting the people of Omaha. Especially when tuition must be hiked four dollars per credit hour because these same people cannot see their way clear to vote us a small mill levy increase.

of philosophy; Richard Lane, assistant professor of English; and Dr. Edith Rasmussen, assistant professor of biology.

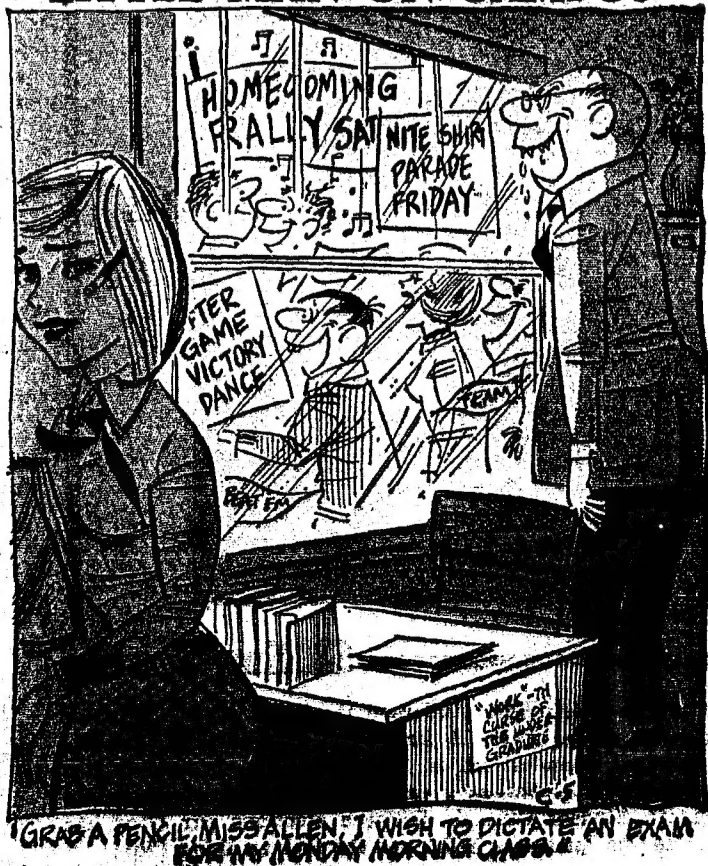

The College Bowl awards General Electric Scholarship grants to the winning schools and also the loser. $1,500 will be awarded to the top team, with $500, to the loser.

According to the College Bowl Rule Book, "The College Bowl is a live half-hour television question-and-answer game in which two colleges or universities, represented by four team members each, compete for scholarship grants to be awarded to their schools. The game is fast-paced and necessitates the selection of knowledgeable, quick-thinking, spirited game players."

The questions are drawn from the liberal arts curriculum and general knowledge. All questions and answers are researched thoroughly by the College Bowl Editorial Board and World Book Encyclopedia. Questions that make up the weekly game are known only by the producer, associate producer, writer, researchers and moderator.

This type of competition reflects the confidence of the Administration in students at the University of Omaha. No matter what the outcome of the match is, students will know that OU was well represented.

Letters To The Editor

Can't Study In Library

Dear Editor,

The University of Omaha has an excellent student center where students may meet to discuss their social activities. The university also has an excellent library where students should be able to study and contemplate forthcoming examinations with a minimum of distraction. Unfortunately, a few students are not aware of the student center and continue to meet and hold their parties in the library.

Perhaps you would like to furnish a clue to these people about the virtues of consideration.

Hal "Bugged" Broxton

Job For Student Council?

Dear Editor,

With as many cups of coffee consumed daily in the "OUamp Room" and the cafeteria, the price of ten cents a cup is outrageous. In most cafeterias and restaurants you pay a dime or fifteen cents for a cup of coffee, but you get a refill too.

I'm positive the OU Food Service Office could still realize a substantial profit in the coffee business if they charged a nickel per cup.

I know many people, besides myself, who drink several cups of coffee in a day; and we feel it is a bit expensive to spend fifty or sixty cents a day just for a few cups of coffee.

Any efforts put forth by the Student Council will, I'm sure, be greatly appreciated by both the faculty and the student body.

Naylor Reports 'Deficit'

semester tuition and fees have been collected.

Where would the money come? A public institution, which OU still is regardless of how much students pay, can not operate in the red.

Naylor said the University will have to draw upon money from the general operating resources fund, "which is at a dangerously low point."

"The budget will be stretched to the limit if student tuition increases or doesn't decrease. The second semester will be critical, but not desperate," said Naylor.

That is, however, if second semester enrollment doesn't decrease — something that has never happened at OU.

"OU may be becoming too efficient," Naylor said in regard to the use of space for both classrooms and offices.

The dean reported that Federal, state and private sources of income must be found to keep OU financially solvent.

Parking Lots To Open

Naylor's report on the parking situation was much more hopeful, even for baseball players and fans.

In regard to parking lot construction, "everything worked in our favor," said Naylor. The student lot should be opened "the first of next week" and the faculty lot sometime later in the week.

"The baseball field problem will be resolved. There is no final decision yet, but we hope for a permanent or semi-permanent site," Naylor said.

Permanent Contract, Promotions

Seven faculty members will have a permanent contractual agreement with a promotion in rank. William Brown will be a professor of marketing.

Five persons will be associate professors: Robert Ackerman, Elementary Education; R. W. Benecke, Accounting; R. P. Borgman, Botany; Gaylon Kuchel, Sociology; and R. A. Ziebarth, Secondary Education—Mathematics.

Margery Turner will become an assistant professor of English.

More Promotions

Ten other faculty members will continue their contractual agreement, but with a promotion in rank.

Three members of the faculty will be professors with tenure: Marion Brown, English; John Newton and D. T. Pedrini, both psychology.

Two more persons will become associate professors with tenure: Harold Davis, Industrial Arts and Mrs. Doris Tabor, Elementary Education.

The five assistant professors will be: John Ballweg, sociology; C. R. Gildersleeve, geography; Miss Helen Howell, elementary education; Edwin Kinney, engineering and director of technical institute and Thomas Majeski, art.

Tenure

Eight persons have been granted tenure at their present rank, effective next September 1.

They are: Paul Ackerson, secondary education; Bruce Baker, English; D. C. Cushenbery, special education; Richard Marvel, political science; Marion McCaulley, library science; R. C. O'Reilly, education; H. W. Reynolds, director of urban studies and W. E. Walden, mathematics and director of computer services.

Reappointments

Forty-one faculty members were reappointed on an annual basis for the 1967-68 school year. They are:

Dwayne Aschenbrenner, speech; Nicholas Bariss, geography; Burwell Beaman, accounting; Kenneth Burkholder, education — administration; Perry Chang, economics; Miss Connie Claussen, head of women's physical education.

Donald Connell, economics; Earl Curry, business administration; Earl Dalstrom, history; W. W. Davis, history; L. E. Ehlers, engineering; F. S. Forbes, business administration; Richard Gibson, engineering; E. L. Haselwood, head of the library science department.

Charles Ingham, biology; James Johnston, psychology; D. F. Kelams, secondary education; R. L. Lane, English; S. R. Lunt, biology; Donald Manson, speech; Miss Cora Martin, sociology; Francis McLean, engineering; Orville Menard, political science; David Moore, foreign languages.

R. C. Mullen, music; G. A. Newkirk, English; R. W. Nicholson, psychology; Russell Palmer, philosophy and religion; Mrs. Edith Rasmussen, biology; Otto Ruehr, mathematics; Robert Ruetz, music; James Scriven, education foundation and general; James Seise, elementary education; David Shacter, psychology.

Donald Shult, physics; Loren Staats Jr., special education; Virgil Stone, accounting; J. C. Titus, engineering; Thomas Walsh, English; Floyd Waterman, elementary education and R. L. Wikoff, psychology.

Appointment, Resignations

Randall T. Klemme will become an adjunct professor in economics next fall. He has a Ph.D. from Iowa State.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Barnett will resign effective August 31, 1967. Barnett has been having allergy and sinus problems in Omaha. He taught sociology and his wife was an English instructor.

OU's Dr. Wardle was guest speaker. He chatted about his Australian college experiences of the past summer.

Milton On The Loose

First Date —
Second Rate

By J. C. Milton

How many of you remember your first real date?

All right . . . let me put it this way . . . how many of you want to remember your first real date?

That's exactly what I figured.

Frankly, I don't blame you for forgetting what was, for most of us, a rather sordid experience, but as long as we are on the subject I thought it might be appropriate to reprint an article by R. G. Windgate from his latest book, "Love is a Ripped Petticoat and Other Revealing Articles."

Mr. Windgate relates his experiences with a girl named Doris on their first formal date.

"The evening began," begins R. G., "as they all unfortunately do, with my meeting her parents. I wanted to say something suave and complimentary to Doris' Mother like 'Now I know why Doris is so pretty,' but under the stress of the occasion it came out, 'Now I know why Doris is so derry.' Everyone laughed but I sensed elements of hate in every wrinkle of their smiles.

"I planned to greet Mr. Smith—Doris' Father—with 'I understand your hobby is swimming,' but, unfortunately, this came out, 'I understand your hobby is wimmin.' This time nobody laughed and Mrs. Smith looked at her husband in an entirely new light.

Flat On Her Back

"Meanwhile, Doris was making her grand entrance from upstairs. She stumbled down the staircase, tripping on her nine petticoats, until just a few steps from the bottom she took a nasty fall over the banister and landed flat on her back. She lay there a couple of minutes and giggled nervously until her parents and I came to aid.

"Up you go," I said helping her get to her feet.

"However, after Doris got up she did three or four more somersaults in the living room in order to make it look like her first fall was all part of the dating procedure. Finally, she calmed down enough for me to present her with the flowers and card I brought her. The card read: 'To the fairest flower of the all. Signed your ever-loving Paul.'

"Thanks Paul," She giggled.

"My name isn't Paul," I replied, 'but it was the only thing I could think of to rhyme with all.'

"What about gall," Doris' Father suggested.

"Well, time to go," I said and her parents reluctantly agreed and sent us off with the usual platitudes of 'Have fun and be good.' 'Make up your minds,' I quipped; but evidently Mr. Smith failed to see the humor in that because I believe he said something to Mrs. Smith about calling the Vice Squad and having us tailed.

If The Shoe Fits

"Anyway, as Doris and I headed for the car, she tripped down the porch stairs and lost one of her high heel shoes. After retrieving the shoe, which she somehow managed to kick into the middle of the street, I returned to where she was laying and giggling on the front lawn. When I began to put the shoe back on she politely inquired, 'May I ask what you think you're doing under there?' and about the same time the porch light came on again and Mr. Smith was standing at the front door with what looked like a shot-gun. We somehow managed to get to the car, after I stepped on the edge of one of her nine petticoats and ripped it rather badly. The drive to the dance was quiet and uneventful.

"When we got there, however, I slammed the car door on her formal and ripped another one of her petticoats; and then I tripped up the steps going into the place, knocking her down as I did so. (We were a perfect match; she couldn't walk down stairs and I couldn't walk up them.)

"We'll be all right as soon as we get to level ground," I said.

Anyone Need Bandages?

"The trip to our table was without incident except for the fact that I stepped on her dress again and tore off about a two-foot piece of understuffing. 'We better save this,' I said, 'at the rate we're going we will need it for bandages.'

"That was my best line of the night and she didn't even giggle.

After our first dance together (except when either she or I fell down), she said 'You should sign up for a dance contest.'

"No kidding?" I replied.

"Yeah," she continued, 'even if you didn't get a knock-out you could win by a decision.'

"Somehow I liked her better when she just giggled nervously.

"The dance finally ended after both of us managed to perform a never-ending succession of "faux pas" and we became conformed and bitter enemies.

"Perhaps we could go out again," I asked with a hint of sarcasm as I bid her farewell at her front door.

"I don't think there is enough Blue Cross to cover it," she replied. 'All kidding aside,' she added quickly, 'this has been my second favorite experience. My first favorite experience was when my appendix burst while I was riding in a roller coaster.'

"If there is one thing I can't stand," I said 'it's a woman with a sense of humor.' 'Besides that,' I added pointing to the ragged edge of her formal, 'you're a sloppy dresser!'

"And with that I went home to recuperate from my first real date."

Thank you Mr. Windgate. There is nothing like a little nostalgia to bring tears to one's eyes.

High Praise
To Festival

By Ken Lambrecht

To coin an old phrase, it's all over but the cheering. And, this is exactly what Dr. Edwin Clarke Director of the University Theater, did verbally Monday when asked what he thought about the Fine Arts Festival.

Said Dr. Clarke, a member of the planning committee for the Festival, "I thought it was marvelous. I have nothing but praise for the events of the past thirteen days I hope," Dr. Clarke added, "we can make this Festival an annual affair."

Commenting on his pet project, "Major Barbara," Dr. Clarke said he was most happy with the audiences for the three nights. "I thought the play was well received and the audiences highly receptive to what was happening on stage," he stated.

Declines To Value

However, Dr. Clarke declined offering a critical evaluation of the play by noting, "I was too closely involved to evaluate it fairly."

Dr. Clarke's loudest cheers came when commenting about Agnes Moorehead's contribution to the Festival.

"I think she was gracious and charming to everyone without fail. And, in the seminar, I thought she came to grips with the real issues of performers in the fine arts. She didn't mince words. She called a spade a spade," said Dr. Clarke.

He continued by saying, "She didn't intimidate anyone in the seminar. She made a sincere attempt to answer their questions. And, if she couldn't, she simply said she didn't know. This, is often difficult for some people to admit."

She's The Best

Asked why he recommended Agnes Moorehead to the Fine Arts Festival committee, Dr. Clarke replied succinctly, "She's the best in the business."

However, Dr. Clarke's praise did not end here. He singled out classical guitarist Rey de la Torre by noting, "I always appreciate a top pro whether a guitarist, a juggler or whatever. And the way this man captivated the audience for two hours, you could tell he was just that," added Dr. Clarke.

The Director of the University Theater said, however, that the arts were so well represented that each performer deserves special praise. And he again reiterated his hope that the Fine Arts Festival will return year after year.

"Mondo Cane"

Mondo Cane — an exciting, colorful, full length film is being shown on Monday, November 21, in the Conference Center of the library at 8:30 p.m.

This well-known film shows in striking fashion the different ways in which common needs are fulfilled in various cultures around the world. It is a movie of extremes and contrasts—not a dull documentary, but a vivid educational experience.

This film is sponsored by Alpha Kappa Delta, the national Sociology Honorary on campus. Admittance is by activity card, and all students are invited to attend. Sociology students are especially being urged by teachers to attend. If this venture is a success, the Sociology Club will sponsor a film series this spring.

Our Man Chester:

Take A Good Look
It's Your Money

By Chet McCarthy

You certainly know how you spend your money. But do you know how the University spends it?

Ten thousand dollars was allocated to finance the Fine Arts Festival held last week. Included in this figure was the cost of two banquets, one luncheon and three receptions.

The banquets, the receptions and the luncheon were free to all who had an invitation. In general, Omaha University students were NOT invited.

Yet the $10,000 allocated comes out of the Student Activities Fund.

How much was actually spent is not yet known. Whatever it was, students had nothing to say about it.

According to Student Personnel Dean, Donald Pflasterer, $4,000 came from the Student Activities Fund and $6,000 came from the Reserve Student Activities Fund.

Students Pick Up Tab

This means it all came from OU students. Why did the students pick up the tab?

There's nothing wrong with presenting a Fine Arts Festival on campus. In fact we can be proud that we presented cultural entertainment to the city of Omaha.

And that's who attended the festival—the city of Omaha. The large audiences which the festival drew consisted mostly of Omaha residents. Of those who attended, OU students and faculty members were in the minority.

This does not mean that they were not invited. The festival was free and open to all students and faculty members except for the banquets, receptions and the luncheon, in which case, you had to have an invitation. Naturally they couldn't serve a free meal to everyone.

The festival was organized by a committee, which consisted of faculty members and not one student.

Students Overlooked

This is strange because students have always been on a committee that used money from the Student Activities Fund. But somehow this was overlooked.

The committee included Elizabeth Hill, associate dean of student personnel, Dr. Edwin Clark, speech department, Dr. Ralph Wardle, English department, Dr. James Peterson, music department and the committee chairman, Dr. John Blackwell of the art department.

Perhaps the committee should have planned the festival at a time other than the week of Homecoming. And maybe each event could have been spaced throughout the year. But then, the committee had no guidelines to follow, for this was the first Fine Arts Festival ever presented at OU.

It should be noted that the World of Kurt Weill was sponsored by the College of Continuing Studies and that the Ruth Slenczynska Concert was sponsored in part by an off-campus, non-profit organization. The rest of the festival was financed by the Student Activities Fund. This includes the banquets.

In conjunction with the Panel Discussion on Contemporary Painting and the National Small Painting Exhibit, Dr. Blackwell held a dinner and invited about 80 people.

Only Ten Students

This cost about $300 and only ten students were invited. Nine were senior art majors. At the last minute Student Council President Jim Butler, also an art major, was invited to represent the Student Council.

However, this was the only dinner Butler was invited to attend.

OU students weren't very well represented when you consider that over $600 was taken from the Student Activities Fund to pay for the banquets, receptions and the luncheon.

When a project is undertaken for the first time, some mistakes are likely to be made.

But let's hope if a future Fine Arts Festival is planned that the financial structure is re-evaluated. Students should be involved and given responsibility if the festival is again financed by the Student Activities Fund.

This columnist agrees with Dean Pflasterer, who said, "If students are not involved, they shouldn't support it."

Scholarships Offer Aid
For Omaha U Students

By Judy Bradley

Do you have a scholarship? Have you applied for one?

Dec. 1 is the deadline for applying in the Student Personnel Office, 240 Adm Building.

Almost 16 per cent of OU's 4500 students are on scholarships. A total of 71 scholarships amounting to $115,792.67 is divided among 713 students.

Sixty-three of the scholarships are gifts from individuals. The four colleges are represented by the 99 students on these scholarships.

An accumulative total is built up as 30 students per year are awarded Regent's scholarships. These scholarships are awarded by competitive exam.

Interested high school students in the upper one-third of their class are recommended by their principals.

A 3.0 average must be maintained to keep the scholarship which is renewable for four years.

Students who have attended OU for a year but don't have a Regent's scholarship can get one. Students who lost theirs by not keeping up the grades are replaced by someone of the same class standing. Students who apply in this case are judged on their performance at OU.

Based on performance also is the University Honors scholarship. These automatic scholar-

Big Man On Boards; Strong Rebounder

By John Whisman

Cager Close-ups will be a three part series focused on cagers that should lead the OU attack this year. This first part of the series focuses on the centers.

Dennis Browne and Ron Story are two of the taller men that Indian foes will have to be wary of this season.

Browne, a starter from last year.

From the field, Browne's .448 average was tops for the team. He dropped 130 of his 290 shots from the field.

Ron Story, a transfer student will be a new face on the Indian court. Story transferred from Eagle Grove Junior College in Eagle Grove, Iowa. The 19 year-old sophomore stands 6' 4".

Head Coach Borshiem is counting on Story as a dependable back-up man at the present time. Borshiem added, however, that Story has the potential to crack year's squad, again figures highly in this years plans. The 22-year-old cager is the tallest Indian at 6' 5 1/2".

Last year Browne broke OU's rebounding record as he snagged 291 rebounds in 22 games. His rebounds per game led the CIC conference.

As a shooter, Browne will be feared. His 15.7 average per game ranked him second on the squad last year.

From the free-throw line Browne netted 85 points in 117 attempts for a .726 percentage. Browne collected the most points from the charity line last the starting line-up by the end of the season.

Story is a strong rebounder both offensively and defensively. This fact alone makes him a capable reserve.

The overall speed of the squad according to Coach Borshiem, will offset any lack of height. Since the Indians do not have a "real big man," speed will have to nullify any size difference.

Indians Defeated 19 - 0

By David Coyle

A last half surge by Fort Hays State ruined the University of Omaha homecoming.

The 19-0 loss toppled the Indians into a tie for last place in the Central Inter-collegiate Conference.

Although the Indians dominated the first half, third period action began to take toll on the spunky defenders. The Indians only "touchdown" of the afternoon was nullified by a penalty.

Indians Wilt

Tiger Quarterback Bob Johnson combined with Fullback Rich Dreiling to successfully wilt the Indian attack.

A return of 28 yards in the second half by Ken Caywood to the Omaha 46 ended a stubborn defensive struggle.

Johnson, behind well-executed formations, then directed his team the necessary 46 yards and sneaked over from the one.

Fumbles Costly

With evidence of increasing weariness showing, Homecomers did enjoy one last defensive stand after Ron Sayers and Greg Kavan lost fumbles.

The Tigers netted only seven yards after the Sayers fumble, but Kavan's fumble proved more costly.

Tiger Bernie Blevins plopped on the ball at the Omaha 45.

A 15-yard piling penalty stopped the Indian defense and moved them back to their own 15 after Dreiling had been stopped for no gain.

One play later Johnson completed his only pass in eight attempts to Tom Stevens for the touchdown.

Ball On 2-Yard Line

Fort Hays downed the kick-off on the Omaha two-yard line and the Indians were forced to scrimmage from there.

When the Indians failed to make the necessary yardage for the first down Shaw came in to do the kicking, but was hurried on a punt into the wind.

Fort Hays, after a ten yard runback to the Omaha 26, needed only seven plays to increase their advantage to 19 points.

Bulldogs At OU Stadium Saturday

Final CIC Standings

	W	L	TF	OP
Fort Hays	3	1	65	34
Pittsburg	3	1	86	39
Emporia	2	2	62	66
Washburn	1	3	27	57
Omaha U	1	3	34	61

The Omaha U Indians will complete the 1966 football season in a clash with Coach Jack Wallace's Drake University Bulldogs tomorrow. The game will start at 2 p.m. in the OU Stadium.

Drake, sporting a 7-2 record, won last Saturday's game with South Dakota University 31-14.

"Drake completely dominated the game. In the last quarter, they cleared their bench, using the second and third string units," said Coach-Scout Carl Meyers.

Drake Domination

The statistics for this contest clearly reveal the Bulldogs domination. Drake had 19 first downs to South Dakota's 14.

In rushing, Drake netted 138 yards to 115 yards for South Dakota. The Bulldogs passed for a spectacular 232 yards to only 130 yards for South Dakota U. The total offense was 370 yards to 219 yards in favor of Drake.

Meyers observed that Drake will operate at a possible three offensive formations. The Bulldogs run a straight wing with a split end, a double-wing pro set offense and an unbalanced slot set formation. The slot set has appeared as Drake's most successful offense.

Ron Oswalt, a 5'11", 180-pound junior is Drake's leading ground gainer. "Oswalt is a fine halfback, who sometimes runs at fullback. He is probably their best running back," said Meyers.

Royer Ranks High

The quarterback is Ron Royer, a 5'11", 185-pound double threat. "Royer ranks high nationally in passing statistics. He is an excellent passer, and can scramble well when he is in trouble," Meyers said.

Royer's constant pass receiving target is Manley Sarnowsky, a 6'3", 205-pound split end. "Sarnowsky is one of the top pass receivers in the nation. He needs only one reception to break a national college record of 81 catches in one season. Against South Dakota, he had 10 receptions," said Meyers.

Defensively Drake operates from a 5-2 and a 6-2 position. Meyers feels that the Bulldogs are a good defensive team with adequate size and strength.

Defensive Standouts

The standouts on defense for Drake are the right and left linebackers. Jack Baker is 5'11" and weighs 215 pounds.

"Baker is quick, strong, and played an outstanding defensive against South Dakota," said Meyers. The key man on the left side is Roger Sparks, a 6'0", 205-pounder. "Sparks has good speed and can cover well on passes," he added.

The OU game plan is to halt Drake's highly successful passing game. "We will apply quick pressure on Royer hoping he will throw in a hurry. The secondary will then have to be covering Drake's receivers well," Meyers mentioned.

Injuries will not be a factor in the Bulldog-Indian game. Meyers feels that all hands are in top shape, and everyone that is available can play. He said OU's total strength is about the same as the last two or three ball games.

"I do not anticipate any lineup changes going into the last ball game of the season," Meyers concluded.

Tigers Take Meet; Champs Fall To Stars, 20-12

Cop Track Title

By John Whisman

John Mason of Fort Hays raced to a four-mile record of 20:01.4 as Fort Hays copped the CIC Cross Country Championships.

Mason's time eclipsed the old record set of 20:22.7 by Ireland Sloan of Emporia in 1962.

Fort Hays easily won the meet with 23 points, while Pittsburg placed with 47 points. Emporia and OU trailed in the meet.

Richard Carey, top OU harrier missed a medal by a stride as he finished 11 with a respectable 22:11 over the Elmwood Course.

This was Carey's best effort to date by about 30 seconds. Gerald Shelly of Fort Hays nipped Carey in clocking 22:09.

Tomorrow the Indians host the N.A.I.A. District II Championships at 11 a.m.

Kearney and Peru should be considered the two top teams competing for meet honors. However Wayne, Kearney or Doane have a shot at the title.

A rugged battle is seen between Peru's Tim Hendricks and Wayne's A. D. Benson. Last year OU's Ken Gould won the meet and Benson ran second. Hendricks ran fourth in the meet.

This year, however, Hendricks has the edge. Hendricks and Benson can be considered the top runners, but the meet honor is up for grabs.

Medals will be given to the top 15 runners. OU's Richard Carey has a good chance of capturing a medal by his fine showing in the CIC chase.

Last year a time of 22:42 was good enough for the 15 place medal. A 22:11 would have placed eleventh.

By Jerry Mysicka

The heat of the action and the cold of the weather were the extremes as the Omaha University Intramural Football League All-Stars defeated the season champion East Coast 20-12 to initiate homecoming activities Friday afternoon.

The action was fast and rough with repeated fist-fights warming the interest of some 300 spectators who had gathered along the banks of the University's Pep Bowl as the thermometer dipped below freezing with the wind gusting and piercing to 30 miles per hour.

The brawling brought ejections from the contest; the South Omaha dominated East Coasters lost three players and the All-Stars one player during the course of the game.

Goal Post Down

Player banishment started after the first All-Star score; an East Coast player was thrown out of the game after an exchange of pushes between the player and a referee.

As the game continued, the rough play persisted as the west goal post was knocked ajar by the action and collapsed to the ground.

Tom Maides, East Coast end, was next to be ejected after a brief encounter with an All-Star and a referee.

Ray Bush of the All-Stars was removed near the conclusion of the game as both teams turned wrestlers. Bush was the only player detected for boxing.

Jim Sandoz, former Cathedral High quarterback, passed 10 yards to Rich Vasek to put the All-Stars on top.

Stars Run Over

Other All-Star scoring came as Center Russ Clark made an end zone recovery of a Tom DeGeorge fumble and another Sandoz to Vasek pass which covered 25 yards.

The East Coast countered with Tom DeGeorge and Dennis Crum running around and over the All-Stars.

Crum finished both touchdown drives with 12 and 2 yard runs.

The All-Star's first team captains were Jim Sandoz, Pi Kaps and Roger Clark, Sig Eps. Second team captains Bill Butler, Lambda Chi and Ken Boe, Pi Kaps.

The Satellites, Lambda Chi and Pi Kaps each placed three men on the 18-man All-Star team. The Team and TKE had two players and Sig Eps had one representative on the squad.

All-Star Line-ups

First team selection—Backs: Jim Sandoz, Gary Peters, Satellites; Rich Vasek, Satellites; and Doug Slaughter, Pi Kaps. Linemen: Daryl Hill, Lambda Chi; Tom McKernan, Warriors; Dave Vagniaux, TKE; and John Berkhiemer, Lambda Chi.

Second team—Backs: Bill Butler, Lambda Chi; Fred Powers, The Team; Robert Cummings, Warriors; Dion Swanson, The Team; Linemen: Mark Hopkins, The Team; Ken Boe, Pi Kaps; Gary Merrill, The Team; Tim Kros, TKE; and Fred Kawaguchi, Satellites.

The Eppley Library will be closed from 10 p.m. Wednesday until 7:30 a.m. Monday for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Intra Cagers Start Season

Six intramural basketball teams saw action on opening night Monday with three teams victors.

The Hawks defeated the Lakers rather handily in the opener by a score of 47-30. Floyd Williams was high for both teams with 14 points. Kent Stultz had ten for the losers.

In the best game of the evening, The Team vs Satellites, the outcome wasn't decided until the closing minutes of play. The teams were tied at the half with 18 points apiece.

The Team won the game 40-35.

In the third game the Globe Trotters more than doubled the score of their opponents the Bull Dogs. The final was 49-23.

Try For Trophy

The OU debate teams will be trying for their biggest win of the season at the Bradley Debate Tournament being held today and tomorrow.

Eleven debaters and both debate coaches will be making the trek to Peoria, Illinois. "We'll be trying for a sweepstakes win said assistant debate coach John Wanzanried.

The sweepstakes trophy can only go to a school with many participants in a variety of events. OU has entered discussion, oral interpretation, radio newscasting and listening and debate.

Attending the two-day meet with head coach Duane Aschenbrenner and assistant coach John Wanzanried will be Fred Borges, Jan Volte, Cary Mills, Roger Sutton, Larry Shueler, Pat Mulaney, Denny Adams, Gary Lambers, Pattie Pease, John Liebman and Doreen Moritz.

DEAR REB:

Sports hero loses girl to mild-mannered math major.

DEAR REB:

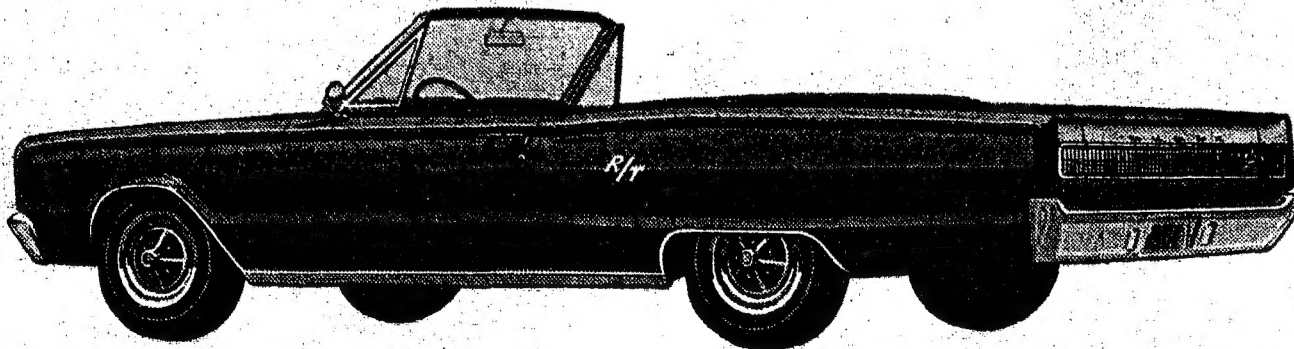

I'm a big football star, and I've found a girl who suits me to a T. But I've been blocked out of the play by a math major. He knows math from $A = \pi R^2$ to $E = MC^2$. Now she says he's found the formula for success with her. All he has to do is mutter "Coronet R/T," and I get thrown for a loss. Believe me, this is no equilateral triangle that I'm in. Outside of telling me to bench myself, have you any advice?

FALLEN STAR

DEAR FALLEN STAR:

Now's the time to plunge. Coronet R/T isn't his exclusive formula. Your nearby Dodge Dealer has it, too. And it comes almost as easily as the cube root of 27. Then how can the girl of your dreams resist two superstars . . . you and your Coronet R/T? From there on out, your math major will be the victim of diminishing returns. Huddle with your Dodge Dealer now, and get your signals straight.

Sincerely, Reb

And why not? Look what you'll have going for you in your Dodge Coronet R/T, convertible or two-door hardtop. All standard, too. 440-cubic-inch Magnum V8 engine. Dual exhausts. Heavy-duty brakes and suspension. High-performance Red Streak tires. And exclusive R/T grille and hood scoop design, full length paint stripes, and nameplates, front, rear and sides. So get with your Dodge Dealer, and your problem will solve itself.

Around Campus

The Chapman Report

President Leland Traywick will host a Phi Kappa Phi banquet dinner Tuesday.

The national honorary consists of scholars of all colleges. The banquet will honor the new members that will be initiated before the dinner. The Offutt Air Force Base Chaplain, Captain James W. Chapman, will be the guest speaker.

He will show a 20-minute film on the Dead Sea Scrolls and will give a brief talk on the Scrolls and their preservation.

Initiation will begin at 5 p.m. Tuesday and the banquet is at 6 p.m. in Dining Rooms A & B in the Student Center.

It's The Vet Set

Homecoming for veterans on the OU campus was celebrated Friday with a coffee hour given by the President in the Student Center Ballroom.

The coffee hour was for all veterans of the armed services on campus that included those from the reserves to the bootstrappers.

The hit of the celebration was professor-emeritus Sylvester Williams of the engineering department.

Looking as dapper as he did in the days when "Over There" was the battle hymn of World War I, he came to campus dressed in a tan First Lieutenant's uniform.

The grey-haired vet said he did not see any action. In the early stages of the overseas action he stayed in the reserves.

Holy Fiedler! It's "Superman"

The Eppley Conference Center Auditorium saw the massing of English majors, minors and instructors to hear Leslie Fiedler, noted author, lecturer and critic, discuss "the minority novel."

Fiedler's lecture on Nov. 9 was the literary contribution to the Fine Arts Festival.

According to Fiedler, the minority novel expresses the views and registers a protest against the majority in society.

"Actually, all novels are a protest form by a minority, but I wish to talk only about the disposed and underprivileged minorities, the psychologically exploited."

Scubie Dubie Dues

A senior class meeting will be held Tuesday in the Student Center Ballroom.

The program will begin at 3 p.m. with a coffee hour. At 4 p.m. the business meeting will begin.

On the business agenda will be senior dues, the nomination of faculty sponsors and a general overview of the year's activities.

Need Dough Befo' Snow

The OU Ski Club begins collecting $32 deposits today for a five-day excursion to Winter Park, Colorado during the semester break.

A table in front of the bookstore will be the collection area. New membership dues will also be collected today.

All Ski Club members are invited to a party tomorrow at Barnes' Drive Inn, 31st and Leavenworth. A combo will entertain.

You're Parking Up The Wrong Tree

The Elmwood Pool parking lot has been open for two weeks without incident.

A meeting of Dean Kirk Naylor with city park officials resulted in the removal of the barricades. The city painted the curbs and put up signs to regulate the lot.

The parking area will be closed permanently if the rules are broken or the lot or park property is damaged.

North Meets South

Dr. Harl Dalstrom, Dr. Ert Gum, and Richard Overfield attended the 32nd annual conference of the Southern Historical Association last week.

This meeting was held November 10-12 in Memphis. Over 1000 historians attended. Those who were there primarily were from Southern Universities and colleges, but some came from the North.

Dr. Gum said that there were a great number of graduate students present looking for jobs.

This Association does not study only Southern History. It covers all aspects of the subject of history.

The 1967 meeting will be held next November in Atlanta, Georgia.

Scholarship Date Nears

ships take into consideration grade standing in class and the college.

A student must have a 3.5 average to be considered. The resident tuition is paid for 15 to 18 hours a semester.

Ak-Sar-Ben scholarships cover 64 students for four years. Sixteen students from each grade are awarded scholarships of $100 a semester. The scholarships amount to $6,400.

Assistantships, Grants

Band scholarships are being used by 35 students. The total of $2,500 is provided mainly by student activities money.

Employee scholarships provide tuition for OU employees and for their spouse. It pays for up to six hours a semester or 12 hours a year. A total of $8,038 covers 97 students participating.

Intern scholarships or assistantships pay full tuition up to 12 hours for assistants recommended by Dean E. Carter of the Graduate College and the department heads. Seventy-six interns share the $15,334 budget.

Athletic grants cover athletes recommended by the varsity coach, athletic director and the chairman of the athletic committee. The requirements are that a student be full-time and in good standing.

OU's budget furnishes money for Tuition Grants to worthy, needy students. The grant pays an average of $100 per semester as a helping hand to students in good standing who have applied.

The 139 students financed by $14,279 is the largest total of students on scholarships.

Educational Opportunity Grants are a helping hand from the federal government to worthy students. The school usually matches the amount of money the government gives.

Aid In Colleges

Each college has several specific scholarships. All require that a student be full-time and in good standing.

Business college is represented by scholarships from Associated Retailers, Arthur Brandeis, Paul T. Crossman and Hinky Dinky. Others are Nebraska Real Estate and Nebraska Society of Public Accountants.

Three Peter Kiewit scholarships are offered in the Engineering College. They are the Alumni, Industrial Engineering and Technical Institute.

Other engineering scholarships are offered by OPDP, Western Electric Fund, Glenn L. Martin and the Society of American Military Engineers.

Education Financed

The Education college has several scholarships for its students. Some are the Brewer Nielson, Eileen Gorr, Kathy Planteen and the Nebraska PTA.

Scholarships for graduates in Education are Virginia Butts and Phi Delta Gamma.

Liberal Arts college has scholarships represented by Metz Music, Gilbert Hitchcock, John F. Kennedy and the Omaha Press Club.

Harry Burke Memorial is a theater scholarship and the Wedemeyer Fund applies to Social Science.

Deadline Dec. 1

General deadlines for applying for any scholarship is Dec. 1 and July 1.

A program of loans is also available to OU students. National Defense Student Loan is available to juniors and seniors in good standing and carrying at least 12 hours.

The student can borrow $500 a semester or $1000 a year. The loan is paid back in ten years after graduation at 3 per cent interest.

There is a forgiveness clause for those who go into teaching. Ten per cent of the loan is excused for every year spent teaching after graduation up to five years or 50 per cent of the loan.

The loan is operating on a $120,000 a year budget. The deadline is Dec. 1 and July 1.

Guaranteed For All

The Guaranteed Loan Program has been put into effect at OU. It has no deadline and is open to all students.

The loan is between a bank and the student. The student can pick up a form at OU to borrow $300 to $1000 from a bank to be paid back within 10 years after graduation at 3 per cent interest. The government pays the bank the interest while the student is in school.

Fifteen to twenty students have Guaranteed loans so far.

The University of Omaha Loan Plan is in effect during registration. Students can borrow up to $150 to be paid back within the semester with no interest. It is financed with more than 4 per cent of OU's annual budget.

Lions Club Loans

The Lions Club has set aside $1500 for student loans. A student may borrow $125 if he is a resident or $150 if non-resident to be paid back in six months.

Ak-Sar-Ben loans $125 to residents and $150 to non-residents. The loan is paid back during the semester and has a financial basis of $3,500.

The Altrusa Club makes loans to students in business administration. It also gives $125 to residents and $150 to non-residents to be paid back during the semester. It operates on an $800 budget.

A graduate loan is operating on a $750 budget from Phi Delta Gamma. Graduates may borrow $150 to be paid back in six months.

Students who need financial assistance should apply in the Student Personnel Office, 240 Ad Building, before the Dec. 1 deadline.

A form can be filled out for a specific scholarship or a general application will enable the office to award any scholarship for which a student may be eligible.

In almost all cases, scholarships won't be given without an application.

Angels' Flight Rolls Out Barrel

Angel Flight rolled out the barrels this week to begin the annual Toys For Tots campaign.

The Flight is collecting toys for needy children until Dec. 2. The U.S. Marine Corps will repair and distribute the toys at Christmas.

Barrels have been decorated by the Angels and placed in the Student Center, the Eppley Library, the Administration and Engineering Buildings.

A trophy will be awarded to the campus organization that contributes the most to the drive. Competing organizations should place their donations in the assigned barrel.

The drive will be climaxed by a dance in the Student Center Ballroom Dec. 2 from 9 p.m. to midnight. Admission is one new toy per couple.

Greeks Collect For Heart Fund

Sunday is the last day of National Heart Bowling Week. Since the 14th, sororities and fraternities have been participating in a project to collect money for the Heart Fund.

The Greek organizations sponsored "Beat the Sportscasters" bowling tournaments. Students who wished to participate paid a dollar plus the price of the game. Of the dollar, 70c went to the Heart Association; the rest into the prize fund. Entrants whose scores topped the Sportscaster were eligible for cash prizes.

The Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils placed Janet Archer and John Berkhiemer in charge of the project.

Skiers Give Dance Party

Barnes Restaurant, 3001 Leavenworth, will be the scene of the first Ski Club party tomorrow night.

Ski Club members and their dates are invited. Those who aren't members may join at the door. Membership fee is $2.00 per person. Refreshments will be served.

Membership entitles you to a card, a patch, and access to other parties which include tobogganing, skating, and an Alpine Skiing Contest to be held at Crescent Hills.

Dancing will be to a combo and the dress is informal.

The Ski Club's annual trip to Colorado is scheduled for the last five days of semester break.

Anyone interested in going must be signed up by Thanksgiving vacation. A $30.00 deposit must be paid when you sign up.

Total cost of the trip is $106.00. This includes food and lodging, skis, transportation, and insurance.

Ipmatoes Get Constitution

Ipmatoes voted on and adopted their first constitution last week.

The document will control government of the organization, and set down new rules and regulations.

Newest feature in the constitution is the adoption of a point system. Points will be given to members for going to games, making posters, and working on bulletin boards. Officers will be required to have a total of 35 points.

Greeks Select 'Typical Man' At Sigma Showboat Tonight

The election of the Typical Fraternity Man, singing and dancing will be the highlights of Sigma Kappa Showboat tonight.

The dance will be held from 9-12 p.m. in the Milo Bail Student Center Ballroom. The Commodores combo will play for the dance.

The Typical Fraternity Man will be chosen by an all Greek vote. One Greek card per couple will be the admission for the dance.

Candidates for the title are: John Miller, Lambda Chi Alpha; Randy Neilsen, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Tom Helligso, Pi Kappa Alpha; Jack Schmid, Theta Chi and Terry Hickman, Tau Kappa Epsilon.

The fraternities and sororities will compete for trophies.

Lambda Chi Alpha will have a folk trio and the Sig Eps will present their Sigma Phi Epsilon Follies.

Fred Weiner, Tau Kappa Epsilon, will sing and Roger Rachow and Joe Conklin of Theta Chi will present a guitar duo.

Pi Kappa Alpha is undecided as to what their entertainment will be.

The Zeta Zingers of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority will sing. Alpha Xi Delta and Chi Omega will present dance routines.

Trophies will be given to first place winners.

Do young marrieds with a friend at U.S. stay happier?

We don't propose to pose as marriage counselors. BUT certain facts are self-evident — and proved by experience.

Among these are that marriages — even though they be made in heaven — can be far from heavenly when money worries become rocks thrown through the picture window.

That's why having a friend at the U.S. National Bank is a marriage mender.

The U.S. National banker has all sorts of ways to smooth troubled financial waters. Like making it easy to make a savings account grow with planned savings and healthy interest returns.

And easy-term personal loans or car financing that keep payments from getting out of hand. Or a checking account that helps tidy up bill paying and unruly budgets.

Yes, I guess you'd be right in answering YES to our headline question — do young marrieds with a friend at U.S. stay happier? Yes, yes, YES!

Yes...it's easier than you think at the U.S.
NATIONAL BANK
